Education Research Complete is a database that supports educators and administrators who are interested in finding information for professional development. Everything pertinent to education is covered: curriculum, learning theories, specialties such as art or health education, testing and evaluation, classroom management, and child psychology are some of the topics covered. This is a huge database that indexes thousands of journals and hundreds of books and conference papers.

How to search

Open a browser to www.carlow.edu/library and click on the Find Articles link. You will see a list of all databases that the library offers arranged by subject area. The Education Research Complete database can be found under the heading Education. Click on the Education Research Complete link to continue to the main search page.

The first thing you need to do is to enter some keywords that are descriptive nouns or short phrases describing your thesis statement into one or more of the search boxes. Consider also setting some limits on your results so that you only receive documents that are available to you right now. Full text documents are part of Grace Library’s electronic collection and can be viewed directly from the database. You may also want to see documents that are on Grace Library’s shelves. Click on the box next to Full Text and Grace Library Print Journal Collection, respectively, to set these limits. After determining your keywords and your limits, click on the Search button to begin your search.
The results list will appear containing a list all of the articles that matched your search terms.

When evaluating your results list, you will likely start by looking at the article title, which is the blue hyperlink. You can also see the article’s author, the journal name and publication information, then the subject terms. If the full text is available, an HTML Full Text and/or PDF Full Text icon will appear above the Notes, which indicates whether the journal is available on Grace Library's shelves.

Viewing a document

Click on an article title to see the article’s full citation information and abstract in the Detailed Record. The abstract briefly summarizes the article’s purpose and conclusions. Scroll down to see the subject terms that will help you do further searching. You may click on any of the blue hyperlinks to run a search on one of these subjects. If the full text is available you will see the icon on the left side of the Detailed Record page.

How can a document be obtained if it is not offered by the database?

If you find a document that you need but it is not available as full text online or in the Grace Library print collection, complete the RAPID ILL form accessible from the library’s home page to request it from another library. A librarian will contact you to discuss the details if there are any costs involved.

Accessing Education Research Complete from Outside the Carlow Network

If you would like to access Education Research Complete from a computer not connected to the Carlow network, connect to www.carlow.edu/library and click on the Off Campus Access link located on the right hand side of the page. Log in using your Carlow Active Directory username and password (the same username and password that you use to log into lab computers or BlackBoard). Additional instructions are available on the off campus web page to help you access library databases from off campus.
